THE BEST WOMEN'S TRAVEL WRITING

A LONG-AWAITED ADDITION TO OUR SUCCESSFUL WOMEN'S SERIES

Editor Lucy McCauley's essays have appeared in such publications as The Atlantic Monthly, the Los Angeles Times, Harvard Review, and Salon.com. She is editor of three previous Travelers' Tales anthologies—Spain, Women in the Wild, and A Woman's Path. In addition, she has written case studies in Latin America for Harvard's Kennedy School of Government, and now works as a developmental editor for publishers.

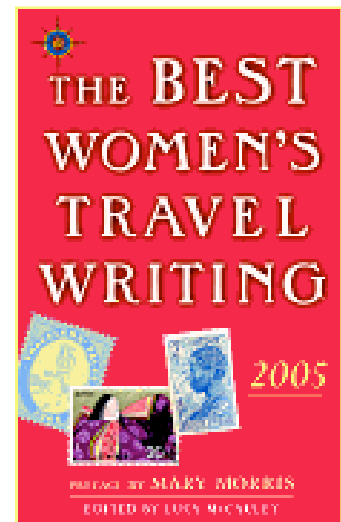

The Power of a Good Story

Travelers' Tales publishes the best in travel, humor, and spiritual writing from world-famous authors and emerging writers.

✧ Empowering and Uplifting ✧

With a preface by Mary Morris, this superb collection of stories inspires women to fulfill their dreams of travel.

This title is the first in an annual series—The Best Women's Travel Writing—that presents stimulating, inspiring, and uplifting adventures from women who have traveled to the ends of the earth to discover new places, peoples, and facets of themselves. The points of view and perspectives are global, and themes are eclectic, including stories that encompass spiritual growth, hilarity and misadventure, romance, high adventure, stories of service to humanity, solo journeys, family travel, and encounters with exotic cuisine.
